MESSAGE OF THE MAYOR

The Executive-Legislative Agenda (ELA) for CY 2022-2025 of Alaminos, Laguna is a product of brainstorming efforts by the executive and legislative departments of the Local Government Unit of the Alaminos, Laguna in consultation with the various concerned stakeholders to address the unprecedented challenge to public health, food systems and local economy that the COVID 19 pandemic presents.

The main drive of this new administration is to promote local economic recovery by working innovatively with key partners to strengthen policies and institutions and advance inclusive economic growth while maintaining ecological balance in light of all the potential new development that will be introduced to our municipality. It is our goal to create highly resilient communities through developing long-term sustainable strategies to address the challenges facing the health and agricultural sectors. It is our focus to boost food production by providing our local farmers basic agricultural infrastructure, increasing production areas and providing technical and logistic support as we envision our municipality to be one of the centers for agricultural trade in the region. The agenda also took into consideration the provincial government thrust for ecotourism development in the municipality which could potentially provide job opportunities and sustainable livelihood to our constituents. Our priorities also include full delivery of basic services by upgrading our institutional, social and health facilities and enhancing basic services through digitalization and development of operation systems.

The ELA of the administration is our term-based plan with a mission to “Advocate Yielding and Optimal Services, Accelerate Local Amelioration and Maintain Impeccable Nature and Outstanding Society”.

As such, I urge my fellow public servants to respond accordingly and make use of the ELA as our springboard to genuine and meaningful change.

HON. GLENN P. FLORES
Municipal Mayor

I. Brief Profile of the LGU

Brief History

Alaminos began as a barrio of San Pablo City, which was then only a town of the province of Batangas. Its initial name was Trenchera denoting the presence of long and deep ravines. The early inhabitants of Trenchera were believed to be Insurectos and possibly fugitives who took advantage of the numerous trenches for hiding as well as for defense against the Spanish authority.

Spanish Period

In 1873, when Don Andres Peñaloza was the gobernadorcillo (Mayor) of the town of San Pablo, Trencher was formally separated and became pueblo or town but remained part of the province of Batangas. Don Cirilo Baylon, a wealthy resident of Trenchera and with good command of the Spanish language invited Captain-General Juan De Alaminos Nivera, the chief executive of the province of Batangas whose capital seat was Lipa. The Captain-General accepted the invitation and came in colorful carriage drawn by two horses. With Don Cirilo Baylon leading, the residents of Trenchera warmly received him. Doña Gregoria Baylon, the younger sister of Don Cirilo presented bouquets of fresh flowers to the Captain-General.

During the program in honor of the Captain General and his party, Don Cirilo Baylon presented the petition of the residents asking that Trenchera be made into a duly organized and recognized town. The petition was read in public and the Captain General gave assurance to consider their wish favorably. In less than two (2) months the official paper proclaiming Trenchera as a new pueblo or town arrived from Lipa, then the seat of power of the province of Batangas.

At the same time, Don Cirilo Baylon was appointed the first gobernadorcillo or town mayor in concurrent capacity as Capitan Delos Constables de Pueblo or the equivalent of the local police chief. In appreciation of Capitan General Juan de Alaminos Nivera, the new pueblo was named Alaminos in 1873 and remained part of the province of Batangas until 1903. From 1873 up until the revolutionary period of 1898, the following served as gobernadorcillo or mayors of Alaminos:

Towards the end of the Philippine Revolution against Spain and the subsequent American Military rule in 1900, there was no gobernadorcillo. Alaminos revolted against Spain and fought the Americans. Notable among the town's revolutionaries were Don Andres Roxas, Leodegario Avenido, Marcelino Fule, and many more.

American Period

In the 1900s, the American Military Authority appointed Nicomedes Flores as overseer of the town from 1900-1902 and was followed by Don Rafael Baylon who served until 1903. At this time, ALAMINOS was re-annexed as barrio of San Pablo, which was then ceded to the province of Laguna in 1902. It was not until about 1916 that Alaminos regained its status as a town and remained within the political territory of Laguna.

Japanese Occupation

From 1916 up until the Japanese occupation in 1943, the following were some of those who served as Presidents, or Mayors of Alaminos.

They were:

1. Jose Fule
2. Leodegarion Avenido

II. Vision

"An economically progressive and vibrant municipality with high level responsive services, developing ecotourism and growing agri-industrial industry, sustainable and inclusive economy, where God-loving and empowered citizenry are living in a safe, resilient and ecologically balanced environment under a transparent, dynamic, innovative leadership of the local government."

III. Overall LGU Situation

Social Sector

In the social sector, the vision descriptors for the sectors, namely - High-level services, Responsive, Empowered, God-loving, Well-disciplined, and Accessible, are more than half fulfilled and needs more efforts such as the provision of adequate, safe, quality, and high responsive social services, improvement of accessibility to social services and facilities, strengthening the effectiveness of policies and policy support measures related to social development must be done to fully attain the goals for social development.

Economic Sector

For the economic sectors, similar to the social sector, goal is half fulfilled but needs more efforts to fully attain the goals for economic development. Economic development used progressive, sustainable, and inclusive as vision descriptors. More efforts to increase agricultural and fruit tree production, improve and increase access to farm lands, increase number of financially supported business through banks, strengthen local MSMEs, cooperatives and industries capacities, implement policy, projects and programs were sustainable and last for long term, and to improve tourism services, products and appreciation should be done.

Environmental Sector

Ecologically balanced is the state of dynamic equilibrium within a community of organisms in which genetic, species and ecosystem diversity remain relatively stable, subject to gradual changes through natural succession. Vision Reality Gap (VRG) Analysis indicates that the vision is half accomplished, and more efforts such as improving ecological integrity and environmental quality, enhancing and strengthening the capacity for better management, among others, should be done.

Infrastructure Sector

In terms of infrastructure development, safety, adequacy and improvement on public utilities are imperative to the development of the sector. Public utilities are defined as a business or service engaged in regularly supplying the public with some commodity or service of public consequence. Although there are programs, projects, activities in placed, the level of attainment is still on the low side. There is a need to improve and make available and accessible the public utilities to increase provision of support to the economy, society and administration.

Institutional Sector

Institutional sector has four (4) descriptors – Transparent, Responsible, Innovative, and Unified leadership. This sector cuts across the financial management, personnel development and legislative development. In addition, disaster risk reduction and climate change adaptation is added in the vision and goal of the municipality of Alaminos. Resilience, used as the descriptor is defined as the ability of a system, community or society exposed to hazards to resist, absorb, accommodate and recover from the effects of a hazard in a timely and efficient manner, including through the preservation and restoration of its essential basic structures and functions (RA10121). VRG Analysis shows something is already being done – policy, and PPAs, to ensure that resilience is attained, however its level of attainment is very low. More efforts, PPAs, and integration should be done.

IV. Overall Lgu Sectoral Goals

1. Ensure high-level, responsive and improved social services are available and accessed by all.
2. Improve natural resources management and enhance ecological integrity of Alaminos, Laguna.
3. Expand local economic opportunities through sustainable agri-industrial and tourism programs.
4. Provide adequate, improved and resilient public utilities services and facilities.
5. Improved, efficient, and resilient governance and local administration.
